

This is an over view of how the requests should be handled

By creating a middleware Restful API service to handel the number of the requests at a time also to handle the data sent to the legacy API

Cocurrency should be handled by the middleware with a timeput strategy not to exceed the desired limit of the API